Helene Hadsell is the legendary contest queen, who has probably won more valuable prizes than anybody else. Not by chance or mere luck, but consciously creating every winning event she had! The prizes include numerous home appliances, bicycles, cameras, furniture, trips in first class, money, and even a big 4,300-square foot house in Irving, Texas. Everything started, when in 1958 she read a book about positive thinking. Finished reading the book she understood she could get everything she wanted. Exited by that prospect, he asked her husband who sat nearby and read a newspaper, what would he like to have. "I'd like the outboard motor they are giving out.", he pointed to an advertisement in the newspaper. It was a Coca-Cola contest and the participants had to write in 25 words why they take Coca-Cola on outings. At first, it was quite hard for Helene to write anything, as she herself didn't drink Coke at all. But visualizing her husband on a boat with the motor, she finally came upon this: "I'm a lone-wolf fisherman, and Cokes are my silent partners. They contribute no yakaty-yak, only enjoyment when called upon." After mailing it off, she said to her husband: "I wonder, how long it's going to take to let us know we won." She was absolutely certain about them winning the prize. Helene Hadsell has never made a secret of how she won the prizes. She has lectured around the world, telling how she succeeded. Already in 1971 she published a book about contesting, where she shared with everyone how to make it all happen. First and foremost she emphasizes that she doesn't believe in luck or chance. Each and every one of her wins has come as a result of constant positive thinking. Every time the cause has been charged with so much positive energy that it simply couldn't resist coming to her. The SPEC Technique All this work she did, has been summarized into a four-letter formula SPEC: 1. S-elect it. The first step is to select the thing you wish to have. Choose exactly what must it be, with as much detail as possible: the brand, the color etc. You have to know exactly what you want. 2. P-roject it. The next thing is to imagine yourself already having it. If it's about your new car, then how do you feel sitting in it? What's the scent your nostrils catch inside? How the engine sounds? How soft is the seat you are sitting in? What is it made of? Imagine driving it, cleaning it etc. The more detail, backed with positive emotions (this is important!), the better. After entering a contest and waiting for the results, Helene always did this visualization every single day and continuously. It is also important to have faith, so that no negative feelings and doubts will arise. If they do, they simply neutralize the positive work you have done and there will be no result at all. 3. E-xpect it. You must be absolutely certain that the thing will come. No doubts. It's like ordering something from a catalog: you have the certainty that it'll come, only time may vary. 4. C-ollect it. Now it's time to get it. You may be required to take some small action to actually go and receive it. It's important to be focused on the end result, and not the means to reach it. Helene Hadsell never thought how a contest jury must decide to give her the prize, or how fierce the competition was, or about the source that the thing must come from. She just kept believing and sending out positive energy. One thing she always said, is that there is no failure, only delay in results. When after weeks or months of projecting and expecting there is still no sign of the desired thing, you still have to be patient and continue believing - it's just another delay in results. For more advanced information, Bob Proctor and Mary Morrissey, both distinguished experts on the field of Law of Attraction - the same principle that Helene Hadsell worked with - have made a very special learning program about 11 Forgotten Laws that govern it all. I've never noticed any in Denmark where I live and am not really interested in writing slogans for various firms, such as Coca-Cola and the like, but I'm sure many are.What attracted me to Helen's book was her belief in the power of positive thinking.She found out that winners of such competitions all had the following in common:1) They decided what they wanted.2) They imagined they had it.3) They KNEW they would get it.This is important information.Helen was a Silva Mind graduate, which gave her a good basic understanding and knowledge of spiritual principles to help her with her various winning projects.In this book, she tells us about various competitions she and her family participated in - what they did, and what they won.Helen also provides us with lots of practical advice about what to do to win the various competitions. She often sent in up to fifty coupons for a specific competition, if the prize was particularly attractive. She impresses on us the importance of precisely following the rules and regulations of the firm offering the competition.I see this book is at present enormously expensive on Amazon - I bought it as a paperback (in Danish) years ago. But if you can get hold of the book at a reasonable price and love competitions, I recommend that you get it. ...more Interesting positive thinking book. So far I haven't won anything except some fine books from Goodreads. I will try to use the concepts in it and if I do win something , I will post it here. Interesting positive thinking book. Unfortunately, the book went out of print and Helene dropped from the spotlight.But I found Helene in 2007, talked to her, and wrote about her here on my blog. My post caused Helene to sell-out of the few remaining copies of her famous book, get bombarded with about 1,000 emails, and have to hire her kids to help run her now exploding business.Helene didn't stop working, or writing, or anything else, though. She's 84-years old and as alive as a teenager drinking too much Mountain Dew.Her recent adventure was to permit herself to be filmed, and interviewed, for a giant course on her 4-step secret for winning contests and attracting health and wealth. It's called The Winning Sage. It's at www.thewinningsage.com/?m=49c0e2f990cd8Helene is fascinating. She personally knew many of the great teachers of the New Thought Movement, from prolific prosperity author Joseph The Power of Your Subconscious Mind Murphy to Silva Mind Control creator Jose Silva to the mystical founder of Eckankar, Paul Twitchell.Helene is delightfully fearless. She calls it the way she sees it, even if what she sees is invisible. She told me I was a monk in a past life who spent too much time "monking" around.I guess that meant I got tired of being celibate.She says we knew each other then.Hmmmmmm.Anyway, back to the real world...The Winning Sage includes Helene's famous book, Contesting (this alone is priceless), as well as a great deal of information about her you'll not find anywhere else (including a documentary about her).For me, this is the most exciting course I've seen in maybe decades on how to get lucky, use your mind, implement the Law of Attraction, and much more. It's incredible.Plus, Helene is a real live wire - a complete joy to watch, read, and listen to.Check out The Winning Sage at www.thewinningsage.com/?m=49c0e2f990cd8Ao Akua,Joe www.mrfire.comPS — See my original 2007 post about Helene at 📌You can visit Helene's site at www.deltasciences.com/index.html helene hadsell book. helene hadsell wikipedia. helene hadsell book pdf. helene hadsell youtube. helene hadsell blueprint. helene hadsell spec. helene hadsell pdf. helene hadsell lottery
